

MORNING APPEAL.

Friday.....August 10, 1888.

FOR PRESIDENT,
BENJAMIN HARRISON
OF INDIANA.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
LEVI P. MORTON
OF NEW YORK.

HOLLOW PRETENSES EXPOSED.

In the debate on the Chinese Exclusion bill in the Senate on Tuesday, Senator Morgan, of Alabama, in a speech of several hours, endeavored to show that the Republican party was responsible for the presence of the Chinese in the United States.

This charge gave Senator Stewart a splendid opening, and he replied in a way that not only disproved the charges, but showed that the Democratic party was responsible for the presence of the Chinese in the United States. He quoted largely from the Congressional Record in support of his claim and brought facts to light which made the Democratic members of the Senate squirm in their seats. Among other facts he showed the following:

That in the early days of California the leading members of the Democratic party openly advocated the appropriation of State money to import Chinese laborers to reclaim the swamp lands of California.

This scheme was exposed and beaten by the Republicans.

That the original Chinese treaty contained a clause providing for the naturalization of the Chinese, and that it was beaten on motion of Congress, a Republican Senator from California.

At a public banquet given in San Francisco to the Chinese Embassy returning from Washington after the ratification of the Chinese treaty, H. H. Haight, the Democratic Governor of California, presided.

In the great Chinese debate in the Senate, in 1870, Senator Thurman—Democratic candidate for the Vice-Presidency—attempted to choke off debate and allow the Chinese to become naturalized citizens of the United States.

A Republican Senator beat Thurman's bushwhacking tactics, and would not allow the naturalization of Chinese.

Stewart closed by saying that it was a poor time to make political capital out of the past record of the Chinese question, and at the present time he felt satisfied that both Republicans and Democrats saw the evil attending the presence of the Chinese here, and were all against a continuance of the Chinese invasion.

Senator Morgan made no capital for his party by his speech, and Stewart's reply was a complete rebuke.

Reasonable Advice.

Don't talk politics in a loud tone of voice in public places.

Don't get red and apoplectic over the virtues of your own candidate or failings of one on the other side.

Don't abuse your opponent when you get a discussing politics with him.

Don't fight him—particularly if he looks able to lick you.

Don't think it necessary to hold up a bar every night in your consideration of affairs of the nation. You don't need any more rum in a Presidential year than any other.

Don't kill the man who goes about taking votes on the cars.

Pity and spare him.

He may vote for your man.

Don't bet.

Give your wife the money you think you can afford for wagers and then you will be sure not to lose it.—N. Y. Sun.

—The young ladies of Central Maine are making themselves useful in the hay field. A correspondent of the Pittsfield Advertiser says that while driving from Skowhegan to Hartland, the other day, he counted nine ladies driving 2-horse mowers and seventeen young ladies driving 1-horse rakes.
